Lag B'Omer: eating, learning, a walk in the park

FROM THE RABBI'S STUDY

David Wirtschafter

According to custom the 33rd day of the Omer (the 49 days between Passover and Shavuot) is to be celebrated with hiking, eating and Torah study. The name of the holiday, Lag B'Omer, comes from the alpha numeric equivalent of its two letters: Lamed (the l sound) is 30, and gimel (the g sound) is three. The reason for hiking is that the study of Torah was prohibited by the Romans, so students needed a pretext to be wandering the hills in search of a scholar. Hunting or going for a hike provided a convenient cover story that was hard to disprove, especially if you were carrying bows and arrows. As for the eating element, Jews in Israel who represent the entire spectrum of observance fill the public parks on Lag B'Omer for the grilling event of the year.

In addition to the weekly Torah portion during the omer, the rabbis encourage us to study Pirke Avot: Sayings of the Ancestors. Pirke Avot is neither focused on narrative like Torah nor committed to legalistic detail like the Talmud. Rather, its short entries offer observations on how to find greater joy, meaning and fulfillment in life. Hillel's famous question, immortalized in song by Debbie Friedman, "If I don't stand up for me who will, but if all I care

TAI's part of my love affair with spring

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S DESK

Rich Ornstein

Even though spring is analogous to allergy season for many of you, it is my favorite time of the year. As someone who enjoys working in the yard, easy-to-moderate hikes and a cool beverage while sitting on my front porch after work, there is nothing better than spring.

As I sit here today, I think of all the wonderful adventures I will have this spring, and the cool things that will be happening at TAI. Wonderful times makes me think of the fun I had last year at TAI's Derby Party. We had a great time enjoying the races with food and friends. This year's event looks to be even better! So, if you are looking for a fun-filled Derby experience, please join us at 5 p.m. on Derby Day, May 6. Make sure to wear your wildest Derby hat, and you might come out the winner of TAI's hat contest. You can RSVP by emailing Rebecca Young at rsmyoung@gmail.com by Wednesday, May 3.

If you need something to nourish your soul, TAI will celebrate a bat mitzvah and a bar mitzvah within the next two months (see the announcements on Page 3), with several more to come this year. Until becoming president, I hadn't attended a bar or bat mitzvah since my niece Sammi was bat mitzvahed seven or eight years ago. I have found an unexpected joy in attending these celebrations of Judaism. Our bar and bat mitzvah youth put in so much work and dedication in preparation for their sacred events that each one becomes exceptionally meaningful, not just for the participants and families but for those in attendance. I hope you'll join these proud families and help them celebrate their child's bar or bat mitzvah.

After two years of reading my columns and seeing my thoughts, I've decided to shake things up and let you hear from someone more scholarly, thoughtful and impressive. For the next President's Column, I have invited my friend and TAI Vice President Debbie Masters to share her thoughts with you. In addition to being vice president, Debbie is a long-time TAI member and an active volunteer who chairs the Youth Education Committee. In future columns, I expect that you will hear from other members of the Executive Committee and about what they have done to make TAI a better place and their hopes for our future.

Help me make TAI everything you'd like it to be. If you have suggestions, concerns or thoughts about TAI activities, our facility or anything else, drop me a line or give me a call; my contact information is in the directory.

There are a lot of wonderful things going on at TAI. I hope you can be part of the fun.

RABBI

about is me, what am I?," is taken from Pirke Avot.

Lag B'Omer is fairly consistent with the joke about the three-part structure of Jewish holidays: "They tried to kill us. They failed. Let's eat." But it departs in some significant ways from the script. Instead of "they tried to kill us," it's closer to "they tried to frighten us out of Torah study. Instead of "they failed," it's closer to "the ban didn't stop all of us." Instead of sitting down at a table for break the fast or seder, it's closer to "let's bring a picnic or fire up the grill."

Please join us at TAI at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 9, for our own version of Lag B'Omer. We will begin with a short walk from TAI to the Henry Clay Estate. People may bring Frisbees and footballs if they like, or simply enjoy the trees and flowers on the grounds. You also may meet us at the Henry Clay Estate to make the walk a bit shorter. When we return to Temple, we will fire up the grill with burgers, including a veggie option, and hot dogs. Then we will study a few passages of Pirke Avot or modern texts in a manner that is accessible to participants of all ages. A nice walk, eating and Torah study all in one evening; what could be better? "And what it rains?" you ask. We'll find another evening this spring or early summer. Hope you can join us.

Please RSVP to Laura Creamer, the temple's administrator, at Laura@lextai.org or by calling the office at (859) 269-2979 by Friday, May 5, so we can prepare accordingly. There is no charge for the activity, but we need you to let us know if you are planning to attend. Hope to see you there.

FROM THE RELIGIOUS SCHOOL

Elissa Weinstein, Director

As we head into our last day of classes on May 7, it's safe to say it's been a great year for Religious School. We held our first Consecration service during Religious School, and we're in love with this new tradition. We also reignited Junior Choir, donated tons of supplies to Hindman Settlement School in Eastern Kentucky after last July's devastating flooding, collected donations for God's Pantry Food Bank, cooked up a storm in the kitchen, helped with the garden, created amazing art projects, learned, sang, laughed, held a Tu B'shevat seder, made sandwiches and bags for the needy, heard from guest speakers and readers, learned about summer camp opportunities, participated and led services, and more. Our students accomplished so much.

Our Family Shabbats on the second Friday of the month were great. In April, during our last one of the school year, our PreK class took its turn hosting and did an amazing job. Their teachers are Jillian Riseman and Danit Schachman. During their class time they have learned about Jewish values and the Aleph Bet, and talked about Jewish holidays. Our Junior Choir also has performed during the Family Shabbat services, and it has been wonderful.

Religious School could not exist without our amazing teachers. It's not only been a pleasure watching them teach every week, but seeing them take such care in molding our Jewish youth. I would like to thank all this teachers for the impact they've made this year: Debbie Masters, Laura Schachman, Jo Stone, Abby Miller, Mark Schachman, Wexler Yelowitz, Dan Isenstein, Diane Arson Svarlien, Katie Kaplan, Jordan Brennan, Tess Nelson, Amanda Palley, Nathan Palley, Rabbi David Wirtschafter, Lane Fine, Faith McBride-Byrne, Alex Bellocq, Jillian Riseman, Danit Schachman, Emily Hinkle, Gloria Falach, Gabe Robitaille and David Kaufman. Whether it was an occasional Sunday or every week, these people have given our children a gift. Their hard work and support of Jewish education is exceptional.

While we are looking forward to a nice summer off, planning is underway for the next school year. Keep an eye on your email for Religious School updates this summer.
